WHAT IS ITALY GOING TO DO?

By HERBERT TEMPLE.
(European Manager International News Service.)

What is Italy going to do? That, at the moment, is the great political question of the war. There is guidance to its answer in the third and final volume of the Memoirs of Crispi, the famous Italian statesman, which Hodder and Stoughton have just published. Crispi was not the Italian maker of the Triple Alliance, but he held to it and strengthened it.

Count Caprivi visited Italy at the end of 1892, and he and Crispi, then in office and at the height of his power, talked the Triple Alliance over. "The Triple Alliance," said Crispi, "is not only useful to the contracting parties, but it also ensures the peace of Europe. How, we being interested in preserving the territorial guarantee of the three countries, as well as European peace, must desire the continuation of the alliance." Count Caprivi declared himself entirely of Crispi's way of thinking, and was glad to find their views coincided.

Crispi thought that the three great allied powers should interest themselves in the lesser monarchies, and seek to defend their institutions. "Spain and Portugal," he said, "are rapidly being undermined by republican emissaries, whose influence altering conditions in the Mediterranean and carrying dangers in their wake. Spain," he added, "should be brought to reorganize her navy, for she may be of use in the Mediterranean and should occasion no surprise, she would be in a position to strike a blow at Algiers." Germany's test.

That last remark is characteristic of the Prussian, an ultimate reliance on force, as we now see it in its greatest form in the Kaiser's military and naval policy.

Writing somewhat later, to Caprivi, Crispi said: "As long as France remains a republic, and this form of government seems to be taken from root and branch, she will continue a menace to the monarchies of Europe. . . . We, in Italy, are strong, the monarchial sentiment is profound and withstands all revolutionary propaganda. We fight it and will not brook defeat."

There we have a light on the conditions which recommend the Triple Alliance to Crispi, but in the interval so much has happened, and even Italy's official outlook has so changed that now all her natural sympathies turn her eyes and her heart in another direction. If Crispi could return to the glimmer of diplomacy he would find a new world, and the statesmen continued their conversation, and Crispi spoke of Bismarck as, all to realize this.

The speedy Swiss mobilization of 250,000 men defeated the German project. More than 250,000 Swiss are ready to prevent any further attempt. If the war lasts long the German slogan will read this way: Broke the Kaiser!

ALLIED ARMY PROGRESSING SLOWLY

Paris, Sept. 18.—It is officially announced the allied army north of the Aisne is progressing slowly with German counter attacks repulsed. The heaviest fighting is along the allies' left wing where the Germans were repulsed by the British, and along the center where the Germans made three desperate night attacks but were repulsed. After these attacks the German center and left wing have assumed the defensive.

WAR LEVY BILL TO GO TO HOUSE THIS WEEK

Washington, Sept. 18.—Majority Leader Underwood planned to day to put the emergency revenue measure through the House as rapidly as possible and he stated he hoped to have the house dispose of the bill by Saturday.

MEDICOS AFTER DR. BENNETT

Dr. J. W. Bennett of Cottonwood, was in town the other day and was tried before Justice Haskley on charges of practicing medicine without a license. He made a $200 bond in two cases.

The County Medical Society has been active in bringing proceedings against Dr. Bennett. He has been tried before Justice T. W. Butler and Judge A. C. Crawford on similar charges. All told, six cases have been made against the man in the different courts, and his total bonds will now amount to about $5,000. He waived trial before Justice Butler and Judge Crawford to await the action of the grand jury.

HABEAS CORPUS TRIAL SATURDAY

Proceedings are instituted before Judge Crawford last Monday.

The Ed Inge insanity case has shifted from Probate Judge Crawford's court to the Chancery Court. Habeas corpus proceedings have been instituted. The case will be heard Saturday before Chancellor H. Chapman. This new action nullifies the proceeding in the Probate Court.

Ed Inge was to have been tried before Judge Crawford last Monday. A jury of twelve men having been engaged to pass upon the man's mental condition, but for some reason the case was continued until Monday when F. H. Hill, attorney for Inge, instituted habeas corpus proceedings before Chancellor Chapman yesterday.

Several months ago Inge was tried in Mayor Baker's court, convicted and sentenced to six months on the county roads. Charges that the man was cruelly treated were put before Governor O'Neal, who granted a parole, but upon hearing the other side, revoked the parole. Shortly afterwards Mayor Baker, it is said, issued an order for the release of Inge, provided he would return. A short time ago Inge was arrested by the officers and placed in the county jail. Insanity proceedings were then instituted.

Corns Comes Off as Easy as You Please!

"GETS-IT" Being Used by Millions!

It is the first time that a real, sure-as-fate corn cure has ever been discovered. "GETS-IT" is the new corn tender, based on an entirely new principle. It is a new, differtated. It makes corns shrivel and then vanish. Two drops do the work You don't bundle up your toe any more with sticky tape and plasters that press down on the poor corn-- no more flesh-eating salves that don't "stay put" no more hacking at corns with knives or razors, no more bleeding or danger of blood poison. No more limping around for days with sore corns, no more corn pains.

"GETS-IT" is now the biggest selling corn cure in the world. Use it on any hard or soft corn, wart, callus or bunion. Tonight's the night

Effective Punishment.
One of the first judges--real judges and Dothan put in operation many and ideas of corrective punishment.
If a man was brought before him charged with shooting up a peaceful place without provocation this judge used to delight in toiling off half a dozen good shots, whose business it was to fire all around the accused, who was made to stand up against a wall. The closer the shots and the more scored the accused the better the judge liked it. If the accused demurred against this little bit-for-bit punishment he was formally ordered to stand up and the maximum sentence under the code was meted-out to him. In the case of a prisoner who might not be impressed with the target practice sentence there were other punishments, such as a five mile gallop on a frisky horse, with the legs of the accused tied under the horse's belly and a saddle made of fair sized stones wrapped in a blanket for his seat. Protect against this meant again the extreme code punishment.

Old-Time Wages.

The history of Humford gives the following account of how farm work was paid among the early settlers of Humford: Young men who went out to work received $1 per month, for the six busiest months of the year, which was considerable, good wages, though an extra hand sometimes earned $10.
Every sick day and every holiday was deducted. It was also specified that no cash should be paid, but settlement to be made in products of the farm.
Girls received for services 50 to 75 cents a week. If the work was spinning wool, the day's work was five shells of warp or six shells of filling.
Calico was 75 cents a yard.--Lewiston Journal.

kind quickens the heart beats. Strong emotion has the same effect. Intense anger may increase the heart's labor from 150 pounds per minute to 325 pounds. Under such a strain the heart of an animal has been known to literally break, causing almost instant death.

Beautiful Names.

"We must have a beautiful name for the baby," said the fond mother.
"Something that sounds like poetry and is not at all commonplace."
"Well," replied the fond father, "I'm doing my best to help you make a selection. Here's a list of the names of all the apartment houses in town."-- Washington Star.

Highland English.

English as she is spoke in the remote highlands is not exactly the language of the north, which fact is illustrated by a brief conversation which took place between three highland gillies, who had a cup each of the laird's own mountain dew. Says Toscal: "That was the very best whisky her naimel' safter tasted in all her perr' says!" Answered Tonaki:
"So did I neither." And Angus corroborated, "Neither did I, too!"--London Globe.

Marjorie's Good Wish.

Marjorie's father was away on a journey, and Marjorie deemed it her duty to send him a bulletin as to home affairs. After the expenditure of much labor and ink she produced the following paragraph: "My Dear Daddy --Mother is well. I am very well. The baby is very well, and has a lot more sense now. Hoping you are the same."
